

Mennonite Sunday School Convention Set In August

The sixth Mennonite church-wide Sunday School Convention, sponsored by the Mennonite Commission for Christian Education, Scottsdale, is scheduled to be held Aug. 4-7, 1960, on the campus of Goshen College, Goshen, Ind.

The convention will continue from Thursday evening until Sunday evening, providing two days of workshops and institutes with evening and Sunday sessions for public mass meetings.

The last convention, held four years ago at Goshen, was attended by over 1,000 Sunday School workers from all areas of the church in the United States and Canada, and by missionaries from a number of foreign lands.

Dr. William L. Howse of Nashville, Tenn., Director of the Education Division of the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, and former professor at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth, Texas, will address the opening sessions of the convention on Thursday evening and again on Friday morning.

Other speakers include Paul Mininger, president of Goshen College; Peter Wiebe, Pastor, Heston, Kan.; Roy S. Koch, Pastor, West Liberty, Ohio; A. J. Metzler, publishing agent for the Mennonite Publishing House, Scottsdale, and Edward Stoltzfus, pastor and Sunday School writer, West Liberty, Ohio.

Over 50 Sunday School and Church leaders, writers, editors, teachers, and pastors are scheduled to lead workshops and institutes on many phases of Sunday School work. These workshops are designed to help local workers improve their techniques and skills in the teaching ministry. Each delegate will have the opportunity to participate in several different interest groups and to hear seven public addresses on vital issues of Christian education.

Don Augsburg of Harrisonburg, Virginia, member of the Faculty of Eastern Mennonite College, will serve as the convention moderator.

Paul M. Lederach of Scottsdale, chairman of the Christian Education Dept. of the Mennonite Publishing House and editor of the new "Herald Graded Sunday School" materials being published by Herald Press, Scottsdale, will present the new materials for the Junior and Intermediate departments, following which they will be dedicated in a special service, on Friday evening of the convention.

Other convention features include exhibits of Sunday School materials and equipment, along with books, ideas, and promotional program helps. Many of the churches, organizations, and institutions are also setting up displays and exhibits of their work and program.

Commission for Christian Education, which is responsible for the teaching program in the local congregation, consisting of 12 members and various secretaries, will conduct semi-annual meeting on the campus during the three days preceding the convention.

This meeting, with Richard C. Detweiler of Perkasie, Pa., as chairman and Paul M. Lederach of Scottsdale, as secretary, will convene from Tuesday morning until Thursday afternoon. All members of District Conference Christian Education Committees and Cabinets are invited to participate in these Commission sessions.

While the Convention is sponsored by the Mennonite Church, the program and work shop sessions are open to all Sunday groups who are interested in attending and improving their own teaching ministry.

Fife Tunes Are Wanted

Any fife players in Greene County old or young who can play any of the old time tunes such as were played in martial bands will have the chance to have their music recorded for posterity.

Samuel Bayard, faculty member at Pennsylvania State University and member of an early Greene County family, will be in the county about the first of August with tape recording equipment and hopes to locate any persons who can play any of the old, stirring tunes such as were used by fife and drum corps and martial bands in years gone by.

Mr. Bayard is a nationally recognized authority on early American folk music and has traveled extensively in recording mountain ballads, song fests, etc.

His father was the late Edwin S. Bayard, whose home was in Whiteley township and who for many years was editor of the Pennsylvania Farmer & Stockman magazine.

Anyone who can play the fife tunes Mr. Bayard is seeking or who knows of others who can, are requested to contact James T. Sutton of the Sutton Printing Co., N. Washington St., Waynesburg, as soon as possible. He is a cousin of Mr. Bayard.
